Volume 23

Sacred Heart High School

Muenster, Texas

Twenty-five years ago the first CORDIS was published. Its ideals as set forth in 1942 are very appropriate for our school:

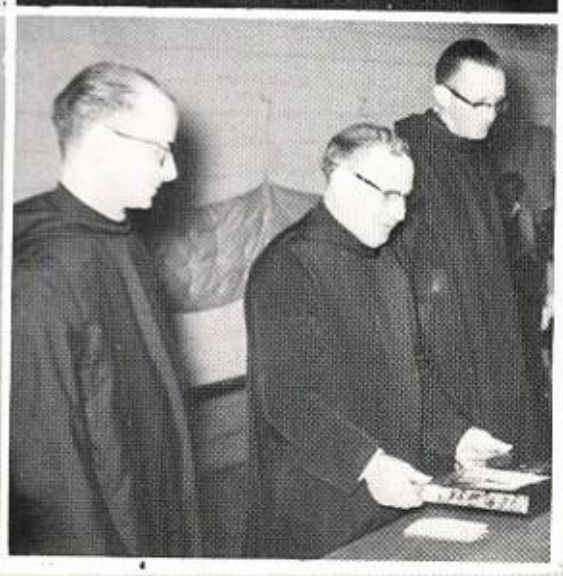
Since our yearbook comes directly out of the heart of our school;
Since it pulses with the life of our school;
Since it emanates the spirit of our school;
Since it diffuses the sweet odor of true Catholic education;
Since it is molded upon the Sacred Heart of Christ;
Since our school and our church are dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, we have named our annual CORDIS.

"Cordis" is the Latin word meaning "of the heart."

Dedication

To the Spirit

of SH



We, the senior class of '67,, dedicate our yearbook to the,

Spirit of Sacred Heart

Brought from Europe!

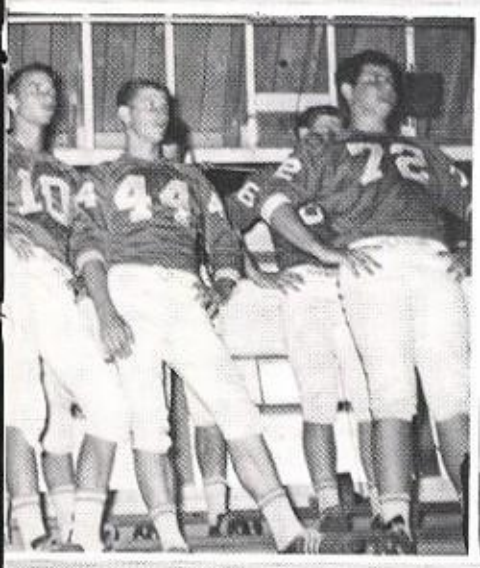
The spirit of our school was first conceived by the early settlers of our community who not only wanted to teach their children how to make a living — but rather how to live. These unsung heroes who rest in God's Acre ask only that we appreciate and revere the Spirit of Sacred Heart.

And the Spirit was born!

Aiding its delivery were the dedicated Benedictine Priests and Sisters. Without their tender and loving care the Spirit would have died at birth.

And the Spirit grows!

It is humanly impossible to list the names of all the people who have nourished and kept alive the Spirit of Sacred Heart. Our grandparents, parents, pastors, each and every person who has ever taught at Sacred Heart, and those persons who have given moral and financial support to our school — to these we owe a debt of gratitude.



To our parents, teachers, relatives, and friends we say, Thank you.

To our ancestors and recently departed teachers and benefactors — we are grateful for your molding our Christian character.

Truly, we stand on the shoulders of giants!

Just what is this School Spirit of Sacred Heart? Is it tangible? School Spirit is the heart-beat of our school! Its absence brings a halt to the life functions of the school organism.

School Spirit is both athletic and academic. It belongs not to sophomores or juniors; freshmen or seniors — it is the life blood of the entire school.

School Spirit is a multicolored flag blowing briskly in the breeze. School Spirit is red and white; it is loyalty; it is fun. It is personified in cheers at a pep rally; it is a project well done, and it is the pride of winning a trophy.

The Spirit of Sacred Heart is constantly surging, throbbing, growing, and it will continue to grow as the horizons of the faculty and the students broaden and deepen.

The Spirit of Sacred Heart is alive and living; it will never die!

Spontaneous Combustion! This term very aptly describes the spirit of Sacred Heart School this year.

Spontaneity and initiative seem to be everyone's personal motto. This spirit flames high not only at football games, but at Holy Mass, student council meetings, speech tournaments, drill team practices, Catholic Youth Organization meetings — all activities are entered into with high enthusiasm.

This year at Sacred Heart is truly the year of the Tiger — Sacred Heart Spirit '67!

THE WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON

TO THE GRADUATING CLASS
SACRED HEART HIGH SCHOOL, 1967

Please accept my warm congratulations upon your successful completion of high school. I know the pride your families and friends feel on this occasion, and I share it.

You and I cherish the same American ideals -- ever larger freedoms, ever brighter opportunity for individual fulfillment for our citizens and for all mankind. We share the continuing task of perpetuating these ideals and translating them into reality. It is not my job alone, nor yours alone. It is ours together.

No one realizes more than your President that success will depend in large measure upon the priceless legacy you carry away from these halls: the knowledge you have won here; the stronger and more certain faith in yourselves that has been born here.

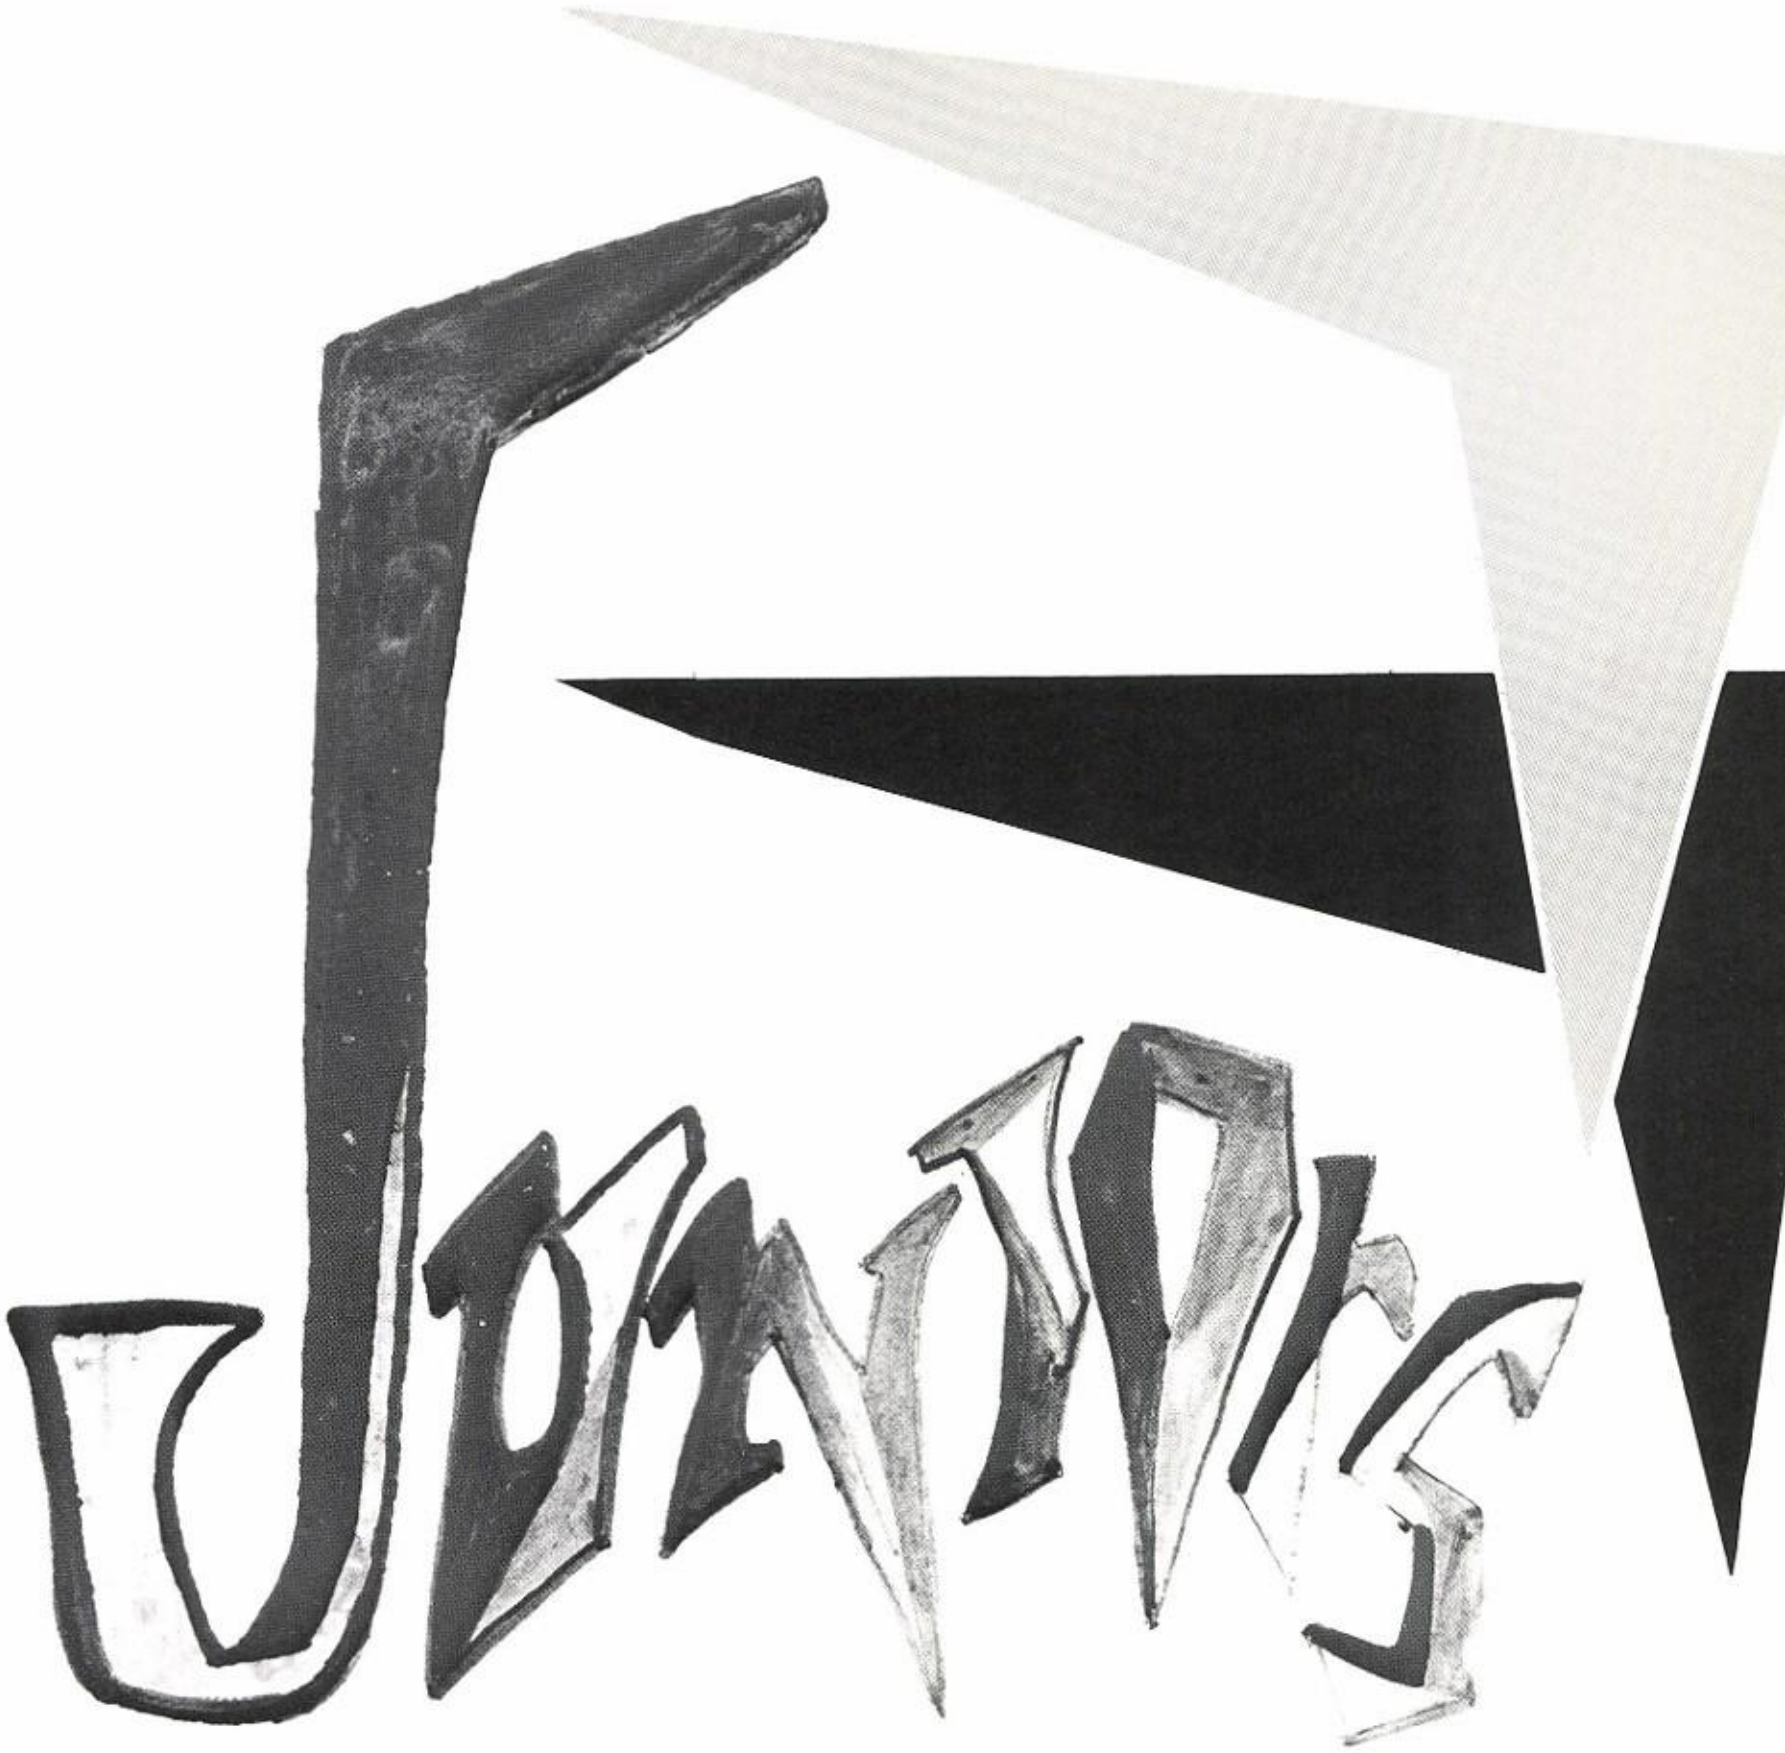
I want you to know that there is no finer contribution you can make for your country than to continue your adventure in education.

In this era of growing complexity and advancing technology, our country can remain strong and prosperous only when each young American acquires all the education he can possibly absorb.

You have my every best wish for a lifetime of success and achievement.

Sincerely,

Lyndon B. Johnson



There is nothing so gratifying as spirit resulting from pride. The Spirit of Sacred Heart has been truly and greatly exhibited in honor and sincerity to something that has been waiting with inviting opportunities. The Spirit of Sacred Heart magnifies each year the personal, unspoken gratitude of her students.

The Spirit of 'ole Sacred Heart is here to stay. Its presence here causes the loudest pep rallies, larger participation in athletic events, and immense turnouts for school affairs.

The 'ole Spirit doesn't scare people away; more turn out just to see it.

The Spirit makes one forget that I'm a junior — he's a dumb freshie. It just makes you say:

The Spirit of Sacred Heart is a very contagious disease this year. Although everyone has been vaccinated, we cannot help but get it for the biggest carrier seems to be our principal, Sister Roberta. Through her we are daily exposed to it.

The bug was first picked up by the senior class with the beginning of football. We thought we had developed an immunity against it, but their affinity was too much. Everyone was vaccinated again, but the juniors, being too weak to resist it, re-infected us. By the second week of school the sophomores had it, too. By the third week it was not only a disease, but an epidemic.

We washed, we scrubbed, we held bake sales; we were proud of our school. We yelled, we screamed; we were proud of our team. We followed them all the way to Fredericksburg. There we found a little too much for us, but still, even then, that virus existed. Returning home, we held our heads high and went right on to the next challenge knowing full well that the Spirit of Sacred Heart would continue to reign as the monarch of our school.

The Spirit being shown at Sacred Heart this school year is a constantly evolving condition. The attitude shown by each and every student is positive and this positive attitude is making Sacred Heart a place of scholastic action.

There is much happiness and gratitude in the hearts of everyone. Happiness because Sacred Heart is helping us to know ourselves better, and gratitude to everyone who affects our achievement in a way that makes it possible for us to excel as a school united for one purpose; that purpose being to realize and to accept our place in society.

CURRICULUM

We are grateful to our beloved teachers, sculptors of our character, whose dedicated Spirit has molded students of Sacred Heart for many years.

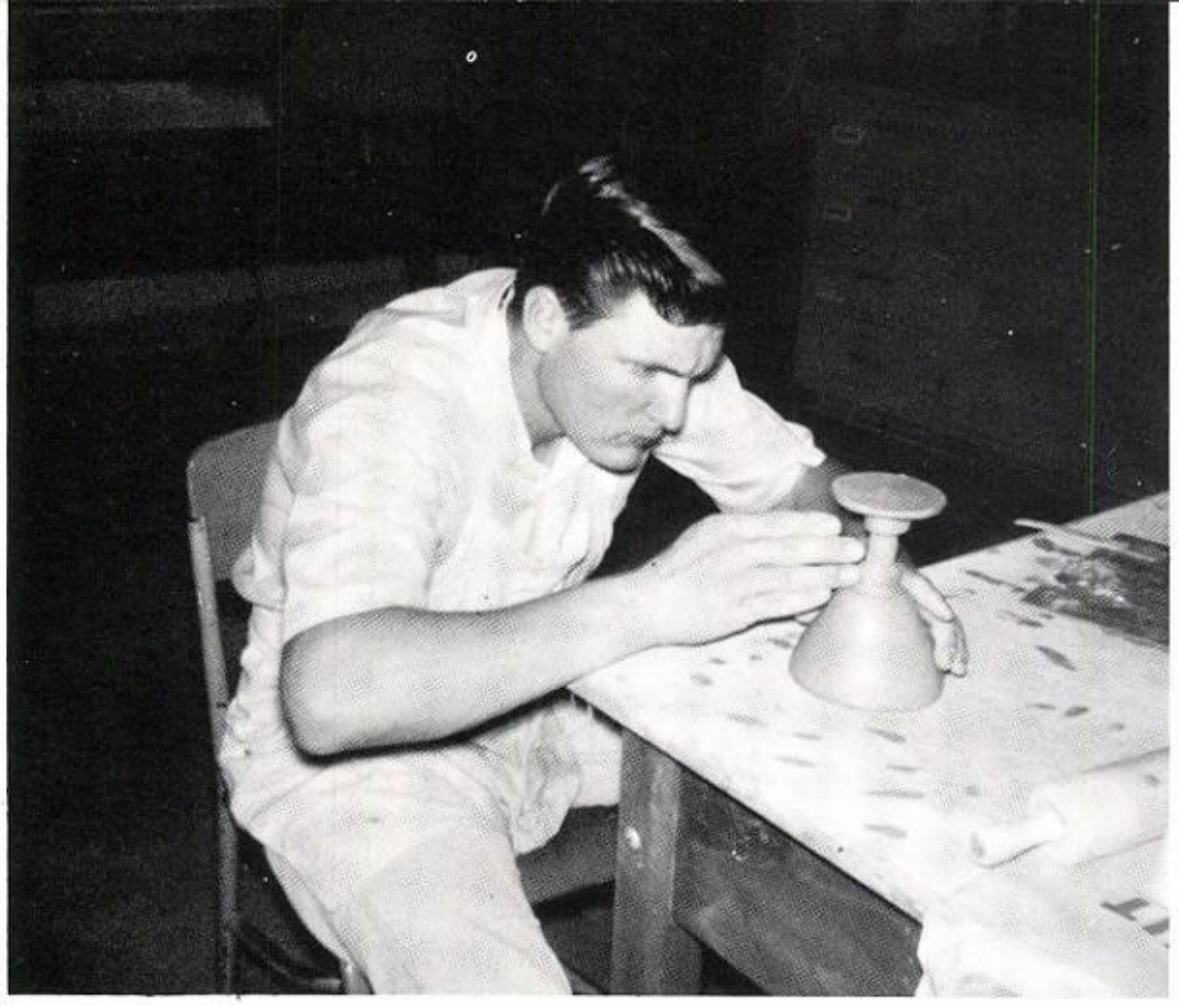

Exhibit of students' work in art class.

The Spirit of Sacred Heart is outstanding. It is a means of self-expression and a means of showing others our love and loyalty to our alma mater.

The Spirit of '67 cannot be explained verbally; it can only be demonstrated in our own unique way.

Linda Zimmerer '67

Sacred Heart is a relatively small school — in size that is. Therefore, much attention is given to the individual student.

The classes, too, are conducted with this in mind. Each student has the freedom to express his ideas a make his suggestions as to how the classes should be taught. This same freedom entails a great responsibility — the responsibility to participate and to give of one's self.

Since each student has the opportunity to express himself, his opinion is respected. We realize that we are privileged to have this air of freedom in our classes.

Sacred Heart's School Spirit is like a raging flood which takes everything in its path and turns it in its favor.

SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS

The Spirit of Christmas and the Spirit of Sacred Heart are one and the same for both represent the Spirit of Giving.

The burning candles of the advent wreath in the hallway are a constant reminder to prepare for the Spirit of Christmas.

As the holy season of Christmas approaches, the classrooms are decorated with a festive Spirit.

We should strive to arrest apathy and the "I don't care" attitude. We should instill in people by our example as active citizens, the "caring" attitude. This alone will tell the outcome of the desired product, success or failure. Setting this good example will demand fortitude and courage. Pericles had this to say about courage and democracy: "Make up your minds that happiness depends on being free, and freedom depends on being courageous." Pericles lived centuries ago but he seems to have hit upon the right recipe for happiness which for him centered around democracy. This is what democracy means to me; and inherited opportunity to better the world.

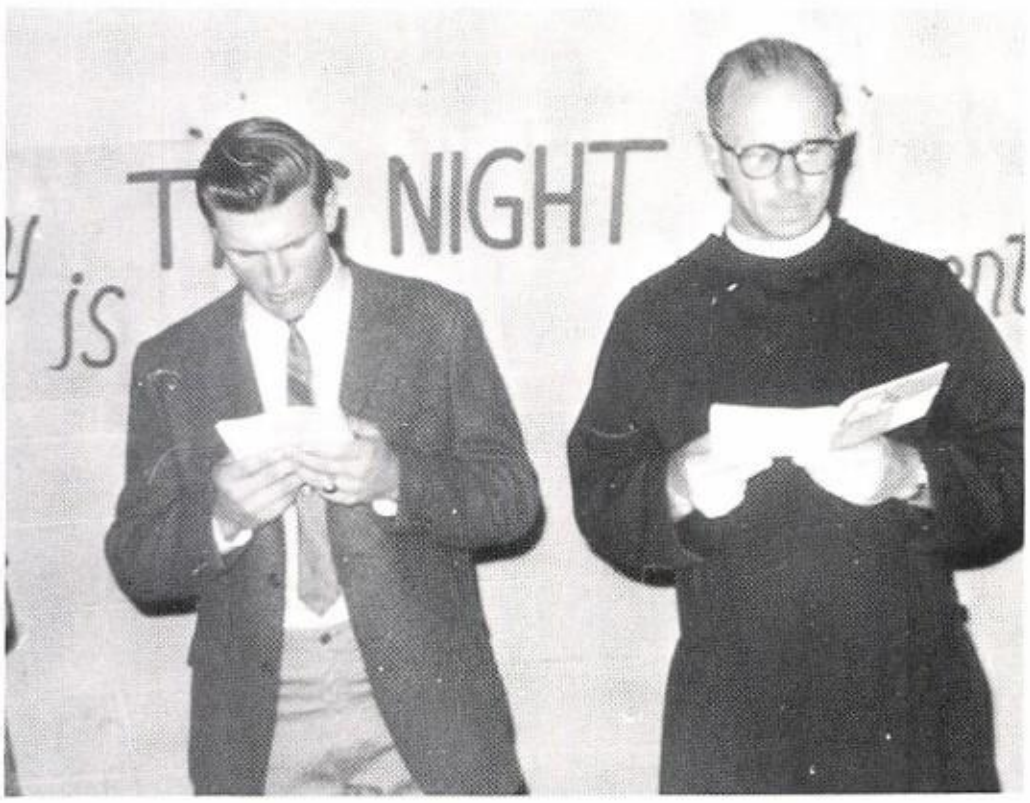
Senior girls arrange tableware for the meal.

The Paschal Meal

Every food used in the Jewish passover meal was blessed before it was eaten — the bread and wine which are to be consecrated are blessed by the celebrant during the Offertory of the Mass.

The washing of hands during the paschal meal symbolized the interior cleansing necessary for those partaking in the ritual — just as does the celebrant's act of washing his hands during the Offertory of the Mass.

Unleavened bread was prescribed for the eight days of the passover, to commemorate the first passover; for in the flight from Egypt, there had been no time to make leavened bread. The bread which Our Lord used when He instituted the Eucharist was unleavened — a custom which has carried over into the Latin rite.



Andy Klement and Father Benedict take part in the beautiful scripture reading associated with this feast.

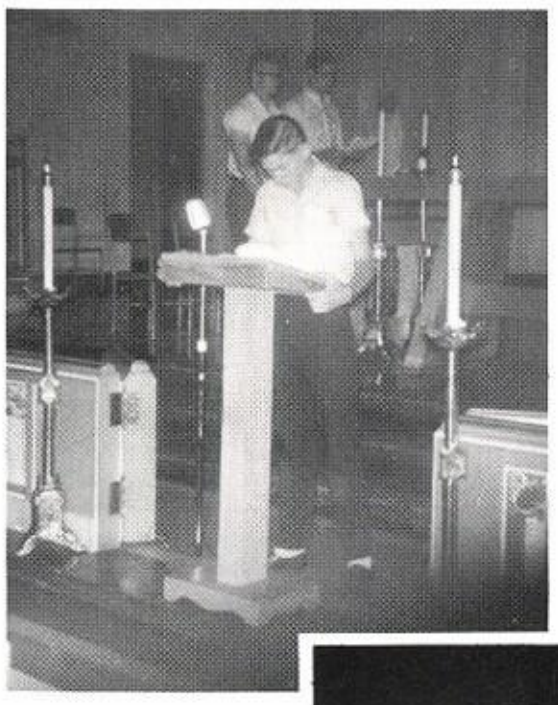
Retreat '67

DYNAMIC YOUTH

ON BECOMING TRULY CHRISTIAN

Retreat '67 was geared to the ideas of today's youth. This year the students did a great deal in planning the Retreat — making it their Retreat.



The Retreat brought a realization of Christ's great commandment — "That you love one another as I have loved you."

The theme, On Becoming Truly Christian, stressed what it is to "follow Christ" in today's world.

The Mass, Bible Vigils, songs, conferences, and discussions channeled the dynamism of youth into Christ's great love.

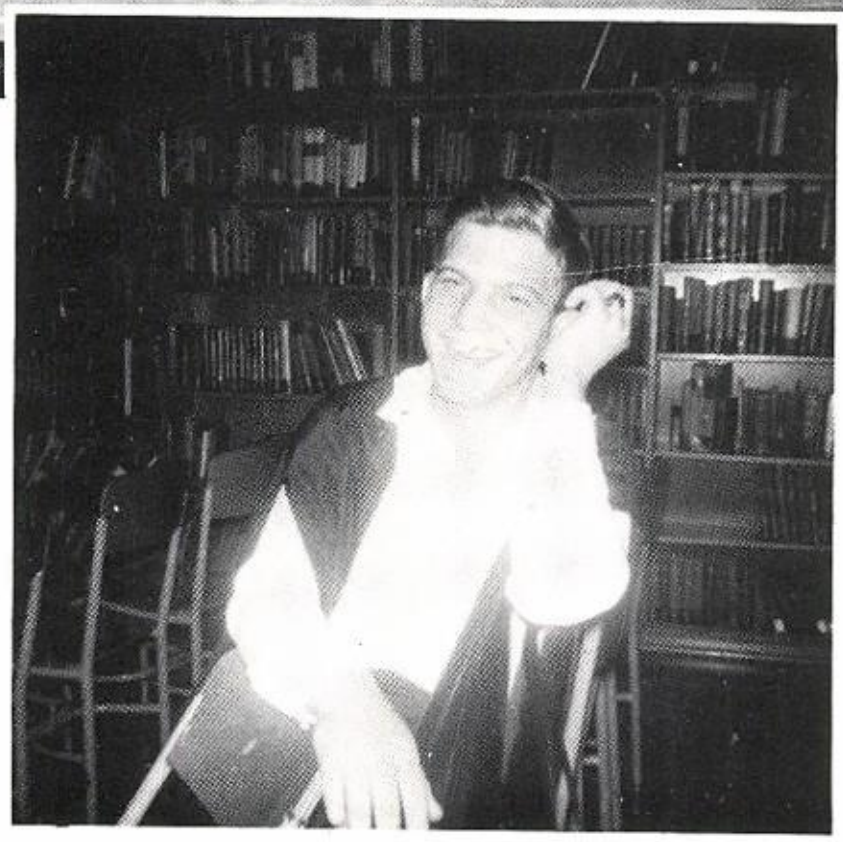
Student Council is the mainstream into which all the ideas, complaints, suggestions, and attitudes of the student body are launched.

The most important benefit of the Student Council is that the students of Sacred Heart are given an opportunity to express their ideas, and are able to have a part in the administration of the school.



"What I have written, I have written!"

Works for the betterment of the school —

Officers attend district and state meetings, thereby learning from the ideas and experiences of other schools.

Sacred Heart's successful year and good spirit are due in large part to the Student Council. When people are a part of something they naturally work to make it better.

We sincerely hope that future Councils will continue to give each student the opportunity of expressing his opinion, and that the Student Council will always remain a pillar of Sacred Heart.

The witchcraft era began rather innocently when a group of girls in Salem Village formed an informal club. They would gather in the home of the minister to talk to his slave, Tituba. She told the children stories filled with magic and superstition that she had known in her youth.

The children began pretending and acting strangely. The grownups said that the children were bewitched. The girls realized that their game of make-believe had gone too far so they accused some of the most respected men and women in the village of being witches.

The furor followed: one innocent and God-fearing person after another was examined, tried, and hanged.

The plot of the story revolves about John Proctor's sin of lechery. Although he has repented his crime, his accomplice, Abigail Williams, refuses to let him forget her.

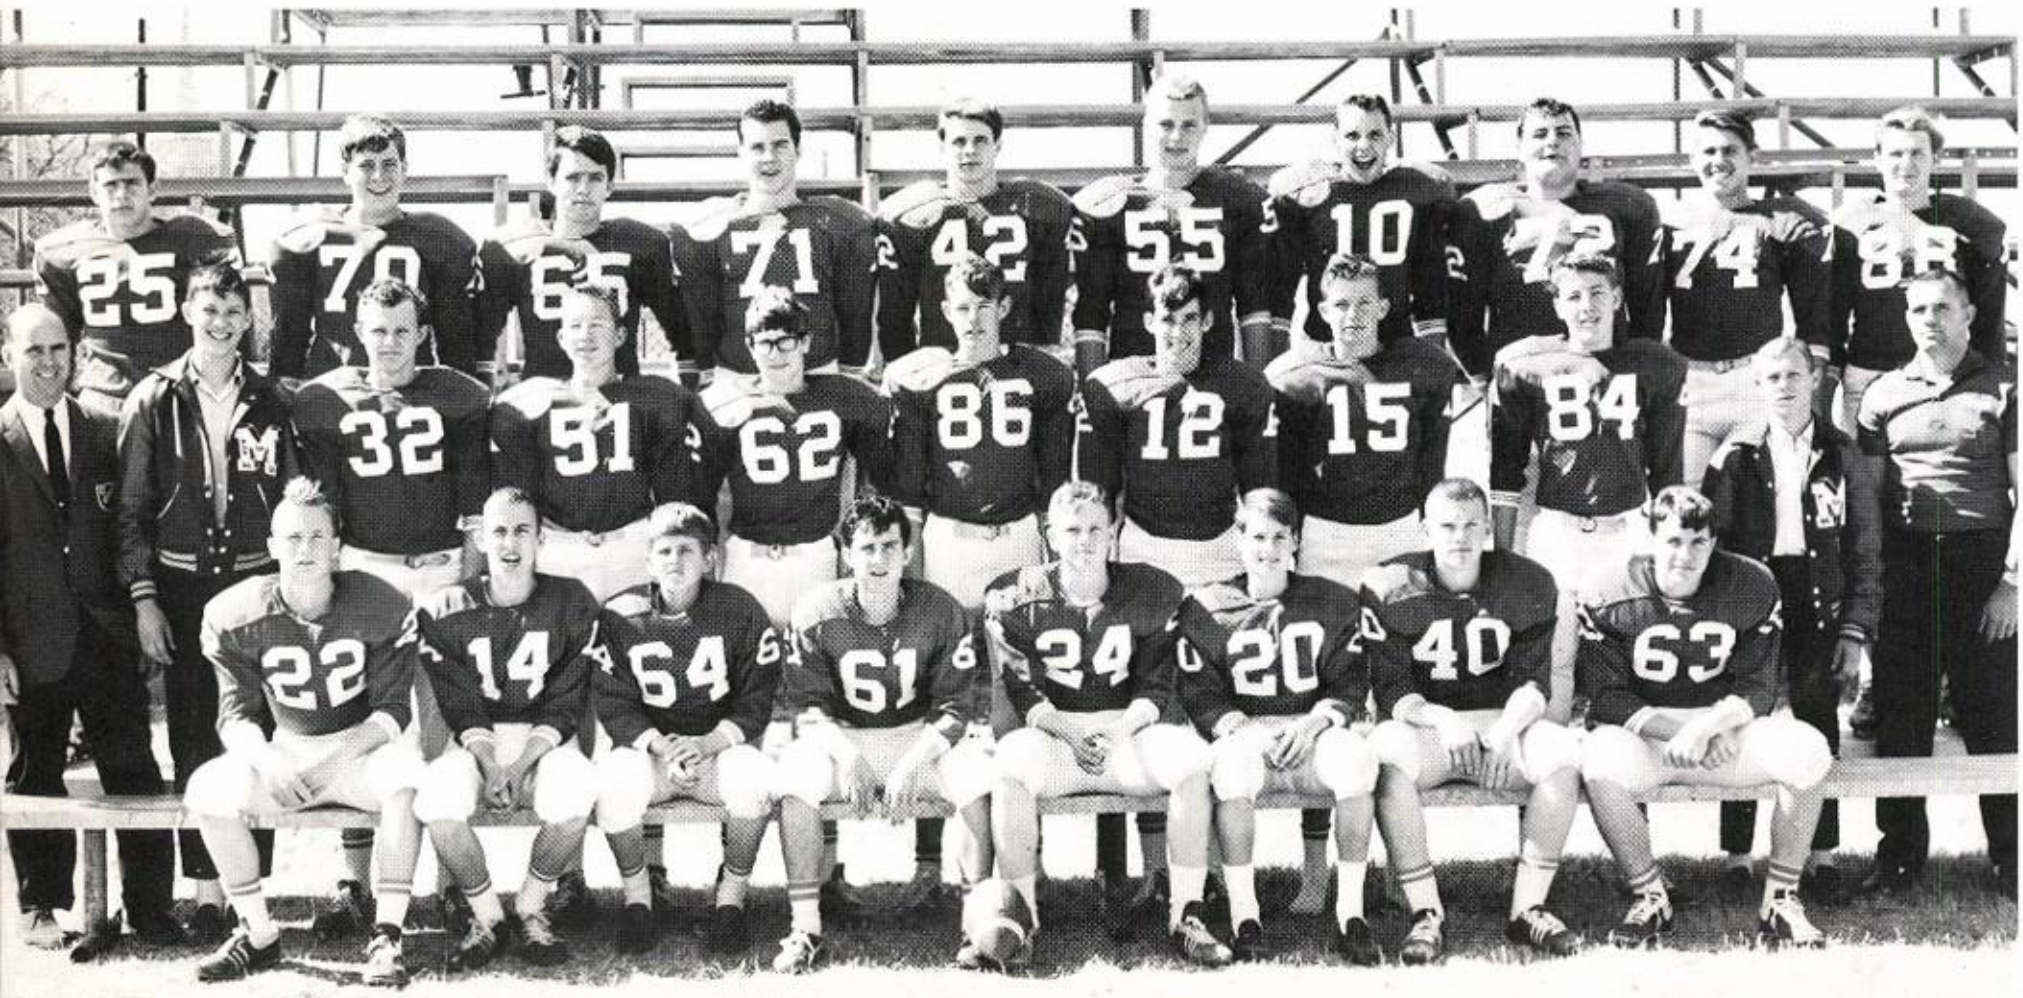
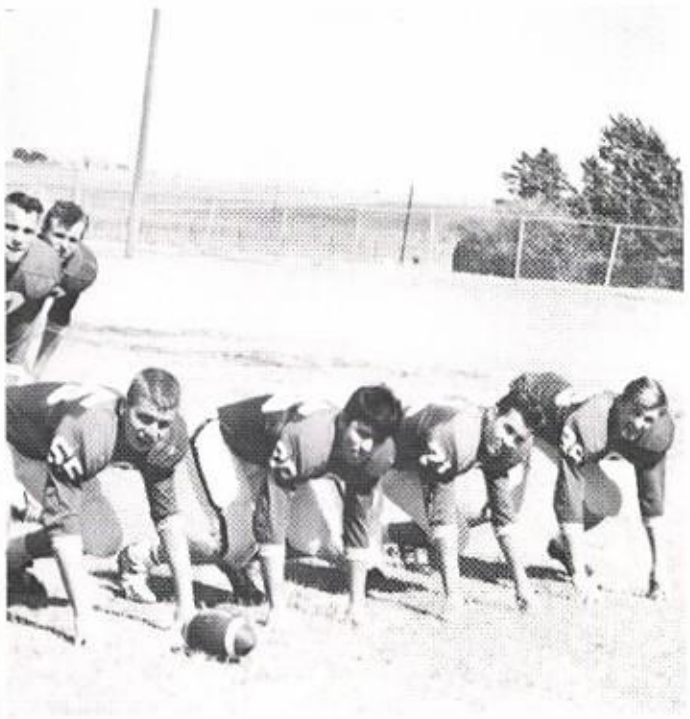
The Why of Football

To me, football is just about the most important thing in my life. For about three months of every year I contribute my whole self to football. These months are hard and testing, but it proves to be a major step toward manhood. It has an effect upon personal discipline — discipline that would not be fully developed if it were not demanded of a person "on" and "off" the gridiron. It not only developes ones body physically, but also, prepares one mentally and spiritually to face the responsibilities of adulthood.

TIGER SQUAD



B Team



My entire attitude toward football has changed this year. I am playing my heart out for the simple reason that we have good coaches. Our coaches are making men out of us, and we realize and appreciate this.

We have good school spirit both on and off the field; I will give the coaches full credit for this. They have taught us to take hard licks and face up to reality; we have taken a major step toward physical and mental maturity.

Autographs

Sheila,

Memories are great but now its time to look to the future. Right now it may seem uncertain but things will work out. I hope that you are successful in all you attempt and may the next 100 yrs of your life be as happy as the last 18. Never forget me — I know I can't forget you — Gloria.
